Personally vetted to match our standards in experience, service, and sustainability, these camps, lodges and hotels allow us to offer guests an entire end-to-end journey. With access to preferential rates, real-time booking tools, and decades of supplier relationships, we ensure a consistent, high-touch experience, no matter where clients travel.

SOUTH AFRICA

Located at the southern tip of the continent, South Africa is one of the most culturally and geographically diverse places on Earth. As one of the continent's most popular tourist destination, it offers a unique blend of old and modern Africa, abundant wildlife and beautiful scenery – from pristine beaches, unique fynbos, and Afromontane forests to rich marine life, breathtaking mountain ranges, and iconic savannah bushveld. Historical landmarks and interaction with local cultures and communities give travellers a glimpse into South Africa's storied history. With world-class cuisine, award-winning wine estates, diverse cultural experiences, and endless natural beauty, there is plenty to enjoy in this melting pot of a country.

CAPE TOWN

Set around iconic Table Mountain and lapped by two significant ocean currents, Cape Town can't help but be one of the most beautiful cities in the world. Striking the perfect balance between nature and city, there are plenty of excellent restaurants to dine at, beaches to relax on, shops to explore, and magnificent natural landmarks and historic sites to discover.

HIGHLIGHTS

JOHANNESBURG & PRETORIA

Also known as Jozi, Joburg and eGoli, Johannesburg is the largest city in South Africa. Being the economic hub of the country, it has always catered to business. In recent years, however, it has undergone a considerable transformation. The inner city has been completely redeveloped, with a substantial amount of public art and new trendy spaces appearing. Areas like Maboneng boast industrial buildings that have been renovated into chic shopping complexes, rooftop bars and coffee shacks. In Soweto, you can explore one of South Africa's most important historical areas and be inspired by the legacy of Nelson Mandela and other key activists in the anti-apartheid movement.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Southern Africa's best shopping.
- Gateway to Southern Africa – all international flights connect through Johannesburg.
- One of the world's largest man-made forests.
- A multi-cultural hub of traditional shops, restaurants, and ultra-modern skyscrapers.
- Excellent museums and art galleries, as well as organised tours of historical and political interest.

TIMBAVATI PRIVATE GAME RESERVE & SURROUNDS

On the western edge of Kruger National Park and north of Sabi Sands Game Reserve is the Timbavati Private Nature Reserve. It lies within the Greater Kruger National Park open system, and is known for its high wildlife density, including the rare and intriguing white lion, which is endemic to the reserve. Over 350 species of bird have also been recorded here.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Big Five including the rare white lion
- Free movement of wildlife between Kruger National Park and Timbavati
- Offers a variety of activities, such as game drives, bush walks, and night drives
- Over 350 recorded bird species

NORTHERN CAPE

The Northern Cape, South Africa's largest and most sparsely populated province, is known for its vast semi-arid landscapes, dramatic desert scenery, and rich cultural heritage. It features natural wonders like the Augrabies Falls and the Kalahari Desert. Tswalu Kalahari, South Africa's largest private game reserve, is a highlight of the region, offering luxurious safaris, unique wildlife encounters, and a strong focus on conservation and sustainability..

HIGHLIGHTS

- South Africa's largest private game reserve, Tswalu
- Home to the thundering Augrabies Falls and striking granite landscapes.
- A vast wilderness, Kgalagadi Transfrontier Park, shared with Botswana, is known for red dunes and predator sightings.
- A seasonal spectacle where arid plains transform into vibrant wildflower carpets.

BOTSWANA

Situated in the centre of Southern Africa, landlocked Botswana is comprised mostly of semi-arid Kalahari Desert. The exception to this is a remarkable natural phenomenon in the north-east: the Okavango Delta, the largest inland delta in the world and a UNESCO World Heritage Site. With the Delta receiving its waters from rain falling over a thousand kilometres away in Angola, and the wetland system sustaining a vast diversity of fauna and flora, it is unlike anywhere else on Earth. In addition to the Delta, there are also the Chobe, Mababe, and Linyanti reserves in the north-east, all renowned for their predators and large concentrations of game. Collectively these vast, relatively untouched, wildernesses make the country one of the premier safari destinations on the continent.

1 MAUN

Maun, located in northern Botswana, is the main gateway to the world-renowned Okavango Delta. A blend of traditional village charm and modern development, Maun is a thriving tourism hub offering access to incredible wildlife, scenic safaris, and cultural experiences. It's popular for scenic flights over the delta, mokoro trips, and luxury lodges. With its friendly atmosphere and strategic location, Maun is a must-visit for nature lovers and adventure seekers.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Elephant Havens Orphanage: Approximately 35 minutes from Maun, this sanctuary cares for orphaned elephants.
- Scenic Helicopter Tours: Experience breathtaking aerial views of the Okavango Delta and Moremi Game Reserve on a helicopter tour.
- Cultural Experiences: Maun offers opportunities to engage with local communities, providing insights into traditional lifestyles and customs.

MOREMI GAME RESERVE

Moremi Game Reserve is the oldest and first protected reserve in the Okavango Delta. Located in the central-eastern Delta, land and wetland meet in a rare combination of floodplains, waterways, lagoons, pools, pans, grasslands, and forests. Due to this diversity, you can expect to see a diverse range of wildlife, as well as over 400 bird species in the reserve. While game viewing peaks between July and October, when seasonal pans dry up and wildlife flocks to the reserve’s permanent water, game viewing is excellent year-round. .

HIGHLIGHTS

- A diverse landscape where dry land meets the Okavango Delta's waterways
- A rich diversity of wildlife
- Over 400 recorded bird species
- Can be explored on game drives, mokoro, or on foot

3 OKAVANGO DELTA

The Okavango Delta, the largest inland delta in the world and a UNESCO World Heritage Site, is rightly considered one of Africa's most incredible wilderness sanctuaries. With an area of 16,000 square kilometres filled with water channels, lagoons, and islands, this remarkable area is a wetland paradise located deep within the arid Kalahari Desert. Each year, floodwaters flow from their catchment areas in the Central African highlands of Angola over 1,000 km (620 miles) away into the Delta to create the Okavango miracle. This unique area sustains a huge diversity of fauna and flora, so game viewing is excellent year-round.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Largest inland delta in the world and a UNESCO World Heritage Site
- Home to over 120 mammal species and over 400 recorded bird species
- Excellent game viewing opportunities throughout the year on land and in water
- Traditional dugout canoes (mokoros) offer a peaceful and intimate way to explore the waterways
- Game drives and walking safaris with experienced guides

4 THE LINYANTI & SURROUNDS

The Linyanti lies north-east of the Okavango Delta, along the Linyanti fault line. Its varied woodland habitats and ancient floodplains help create a balanced wildlife experience, making it an essential complement to any Okavango visit. The area has several unique features including the Savuti Channel, an ancient and sporadic watercourse attracting abundant wildlife, and the productive Linyanti River frontage. Seasonal zebra and elephant migrations add further drama, and the expanse is the favoured hunting ground for a healthy number of predators such as lion, leopard, hyena, and African wild dog. The private reserves here help conserve what is a crucial wildlife corridor between the Okavango and Linyanti river systems.

5 CHOBE NATIONAL PARK

Located in the country’s north-east, Chobe National Park is famous for enormous herds of elephant and buffalo that come to drink along the banks of the Chobe River. The Park is home to some of the largest herds of elephants in the world, with an estimated population of 120,000. It’s also the most accessible park in Botswana, as it’s possible to travel overland from the Livingstone-Victoria Falls area. As the dry season approaches, the wildlife concentrates near the river area, which is flat, open terrain, making for excellent viewing. Cruises can also be taken on the river, offering a fascinating perspective to wildlife viewing and photographic opportunities. As this is a large national park, there is quite a lot of traffic, so choosing the correct location is vital to minimise how many other tourists you will see.

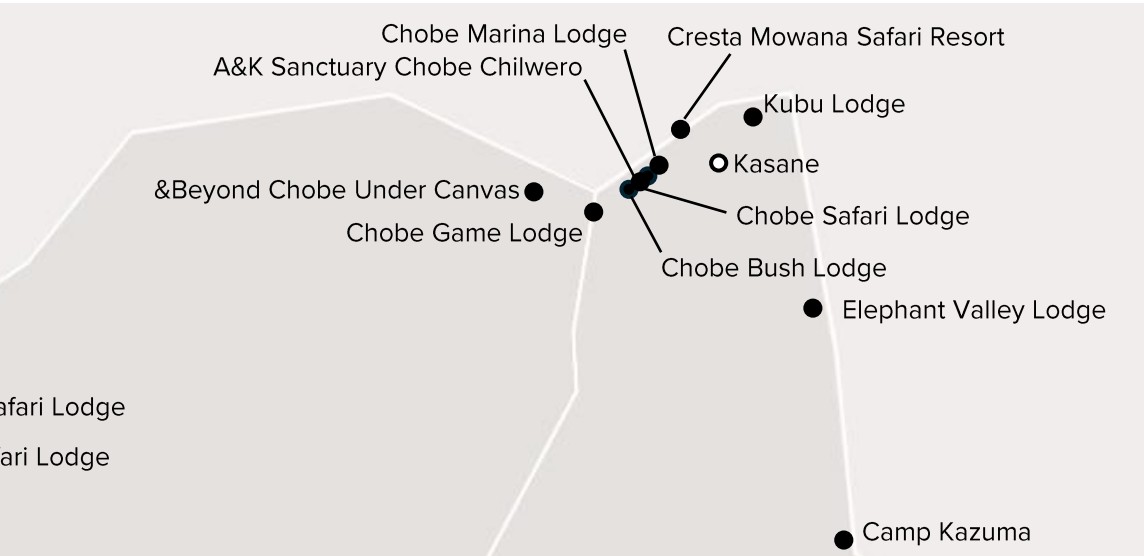

Sanctuary Chobe Chilwero Lodge | Elephant Valley Lodge

CENTRAL KALAHARI GAME RESERVE

The Kalahari Desert is the greatest unbroken stretch of sand in the world, and in Botswana, at its core is the Central Kalahari Game Reserve, a vast flat expanse of scrub-covered fossil dunes interspersed with ancient river valleys and acacia savannah areas. At five million hectares (12 million acres), the Central Kalahari Game Reserve is one of the largest protected areas in Africa. Its diverse wildlife – which includes significant populations of lion, cheetah, and brown hyena as well as other desert-adapted wildlife – and incredible scenery offer an amazing contrast to the rest of Botswana. One of its highlights is Deception Valley; located in the north and formed by four fossilised river systems, its sweet grasses attract large herds of herbivores and, in turn, hungry predators.

7 MAKGADIKGADI

The vast salt pans and grass plains of Makgadikgadi form part of the Central Kalahari and remain almost entirely devoid of wildlife for most of the year. When the rains fall, however, it triggers the zebra migration – Africa’s other great migration – which moves between the Okavango Delta and Makgadikgadi. Many are also drawn here by the epic emptiness, a vast plain of salt punctuated by solitary islands of rocks and baobabs. The San people still live in this area and have fascinating techniques for surviving these harsh climes. Indeed, they have lived here for millennia, and it’s possible to find evidence of their distant ancestors through archaeological

HIGHLIGHTS

- Vast, flat salt pans
- Zebra migration, longest in Africa
- During the wet season, the pans transform into grasslands and temporary lakes, attracting migrating wildlife
- Home to the San people, offering visitors the opportunity to learn about their unique culture
- Activities on offer include quad biking, horseback riding, and sleep-outs under the stars

8 TULI BLOCK

The Tuli Block, located in southeastern Botswana, is a distinctive wilderness area stretching along the Limpopo River near the borders of South Africa and Zimbabwe. Renowned for its dramatic landscapes—featuring ancient baobabs, sandstone outcrops, and riverine forests—it offers a unique safari experience. Home to the Northern Tuli Game Reserve, the region hosts abundant wildlife, including elephants, big cats, and over 350 bird species. Its rich history includes San rock art and archaeological sites.

HIGHLIGHTS

- The Tuli Block is home to a rich array of wildlife, including elephants, lions, leopards, cheetahs, and over 350 bird species, making it a prime destination for nature enthusiasts and photographers
- The region boasts dramatic landscapes with ancient baobabs, sandstone outcrops, and notable formations like Solomon's Wall.

KENYA

Kenya, alongside its neighbour Tanzania, is one of East Africa's premier safari destinations. Its coastline to the south-east is lapped by the warm Indian Ocean, with its highest point (Mount Kenya at 5 199 m / 17 000 ft) in the centre of the country. It is also home to Lake Victoria in the west, the second-largest freshwater lake in the world. What it is most famous for, however, is its safaris and wildlife reserves, most notably, the Masai Mara and the annual Great Migration, a natural wonder during which millions of wildebeest, zebra, and other herbivores follow the fresh grasses across the open plains of Tanzania's Serengeti and Kenya's Masai Mara. It is world-famous and attracts many visitors every year.

DIANI CHALE MARINE NATIONAL RESERVE

Diani-Chale Marine National Reserve, established in 1995, encompasses approximately 640 square kilometers along Kenya's southern coast, stretching from the Tiwi Estuary to Chale Island. This marine protected area conserves diverse ecosystems, including coral reefs, seagrass beds, and mangrove forests, supporting species like sea turtles and dolphins. Visitors can enjoy activities such as snorkeling, traditional dhow fishing tours, and glass-bottom boat excursions in its clear waters.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Protects vibrant coral reefs, seagrass beds, and mangrove forests along Kenya’s southern coast.
- Supports rich marine life, including dolphins, sea turtles, and numerous fish species.

3 LEWA WILDLIFE CONSERVANCY

Lewa is a private conservancy with diverse habitats, from grassland plains to forests, wetlands, and hills. Formerly a cattle ranch, Lewa is now a shining example of exceptional wildlife conservation, whose efforts have brought back healthy populations of endangered black rhino and Grévy's zebra. The conservancy is a not-for-profit organisation that works closely with local Maasai communities for a sustainable safari experience – not just game viewing but also genuine cultural encounters. In addition to daily game drives, many adventure activities are available, including lion tracking, camel trekking, fly camping, horseback riding, and village visits.

LAIKIPIA COUNTY

Located in the central highlands of Kenya with towering Mount Kenya in the south, Laikipia County is regarded as one of Kenya's premier wildlife destinations. The area used to be home to enormous cattle ranches, but today, the focus has shifted to conservation, and big cats, vast herds of elephants, and Critically Endangered black rhino roam the plains, generating income for local communities. Years of co-operation between conservationists, ranchers, and locals have helped ensure the area can support a healthy and growing wildlife population, allowing several imperilled species, like the black rhino, to recover.

HIGHLIGHTS

- One of the best places in Kenya to see black rhino and Grévy's zebra
- Variety of landscapes supporting diverse wildlife
- Works closely with local Maasai communities, creating a sustainable conservation model
- Opportunities for authentic cultural encounters
- Kenya Choppers scenic flights

7 MASAI MARA NATIONAL RESERVE

Home to the Great Migration, where millions of wildebeest, zebra, and other herbivores move across the plains annually, Kenya's Masai Mara is one of the world's most famous game reserves. Between July and October, the herds pour into the Masai Mara from Tanzania's Serengeti National Park. They must cross the Mara River on the border, marking the most treacherous point in the journey, with crocodiles waiting beneath the surface. It's one of Africa's premier wildlife experiences and has one of the highest concentrations of wildlife year-round. The reserve is named after the Maasai people, who are the ancestral inhabitants of the area.

HIGHLIGHTS

- The Great Migration with river crossings at the Mara River
- Abundant wildlife year-round
- Learn about the Maasai people and their unique culture and traditions

8 MASAI MARA CONSERVANCIES

The Masai Mara Conservancies are a network of privately and communally owned wildlife conservation areas that border the Masai Mara National Reserve in Kenya. They play a vital role in protecting the greater Mara ecosystem and offer a more exclusive and intimate safari experience. The Masai Mara Conservancies also contribute to the Mara ecosystem as they benefit local communities directly.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Enjoy activities not always available in the main reserve, like walking safaris and night drives
- Learn about the Maasai culture and way of life, adding a rich cultural dimension to your safari
- By choosing a conservancy, you're directly contributing to protecting wildlife and supporting local

NAMIBIA

Namibia is aptly named after the Namib – one of the oldest deserts on the planet. Covering the entirety of Namibia's coastline, the Namib offers endless desolate beauty as the desert meets the sea. With such open landscapes, endless sunshine, and star-filled nights, Namibia attracts many tourists, fuelling a booming tourism sector. Its national parks and game reserves boast a wide variety of wildlife across various environments: The white salt pans of Etosha National Park, the red dunes at Sossusvlei, lonely beaches along the Skeleton Coast, and the isolated wilderness of the Kunene Region. Astonishing contrasts are everywhere for tourists to savour, enjoy and photograph.

2 MARIENTAL

Mariental, nestled in Namibia's Hardap Region, offers a tranquil retreat for travellers. Just north of the town lies the expansive Hardap Dam, Namibia's largest reservoir, ideal for birdwatching, fishing, and boating. The nearby Hardap Recreation Area boasts diverse wildlife and scenic hiking trails. Mariental also serves as a gateway to the Kalahari Desert, where visitors can explore vast red sand dunes and unique desert flora and fauna. Its warm hospitality and serene landscapes make it a charming stopover.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Hardap Dam
- NG Kerk Mariental
- Mariental Museum
- Fish River

3 FISH RIVER CANYON

A jaw-dropping landscape and the largest canyon in Africa, it also happens to be one of Africa’s lesser-visited wonders. At 161 km long, 27 km wide and 550m at its deepest, this ancient ravine is awe-inspiring in size. With some of the rocks found here dating back 1,800 million years and signs of Stone Age people living in the canyon 50,000 years ago, it is a place steeped in history. The Fish River is also Namibia’s longest interior river, and even during the driest periods of the year, there are still pools of water to be found, attracting thirsty animals. It is an adventurer’s paradise with hot springs, hiking trails, private reserves, and the Ai-Ais/Richtersveld Transfrontier Park .

HIGHLIGHTS

- Etosha Pan, a massive, shimmering white salt pan, is the park’s most iconic feature
- Diverse habitats and abundant wildlife
- Spring-fed waterholes act as magnets for wildlife, especially during the dry season
- Over 340 recorded bird species including large flocks of flamingos
- Relatively easy to access with self-drive safaris or guided game drives as options

4 LÜDERITZ

Perched on the edge of the Atlantic Ocean, where the ocean meets the vast Namib Desert, Lüderitz feels like a place out of time. Once a bustling diamond mining town, it now offers itself as a captivating coastal town with a fascinating history. With Kolmanskop Ghost Town a short drive away, its sand-filled houses and haunting beauty serve as a stark reminder of the diamond rush’s fleeting nature. In addition to its history, Lüderitz serves as an exceptional wildlife hotspot. Located near Tsau //Khaeb National Park, penguin colonies, flamingos, ostriches, and seals can all be seen while staying in Lüderitz.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Kolmanskop Ghost Town
- Tsau //Khaeb National Park
- Bogenfels Rock Arch
- Diaz Point
- Penguin Island
- Seal colony

Klein Aus Vista Eagles Nest | Fish River Lodge

5 SOSSUSVLEI

Sossusvlei's towering sand dunes and clay pans form one of Namibia's most iconic landscapes. Located in the vast Namib-Naukluft National Park, this rippling sand sea of towering dunes has been shaped by the wind, and the underground Tsauchab River. While seemingly barren due to its status as one of the oldest and driest ecosystems, the clay 'vleis' (pans or valleys) feature a mosaic pattern where green camelthorn trees grow, and oryx and ostrich can be seen. Solitary dead acacia trees mark the river's old routes, some centuries old. During the rainy season (January to April), the pans bloom with yellow devil thorn flowers, and the dunes turn green in places.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Immense sand dunes such as Big Daddy and Dune 45
- Clay pans like Dead Vlei
- Hiking, hot air balloon rides, scenic flights, and quad biking on offer
- Desert-adapted wildlife and plants

DAMARALAND

Damaraland, with its flat-topped mountains, encompasses a vast, rugged wilderness in north-western Namibia. Nestled between the Skeleton Coast, Kaokoland, and Etosha, this sparsely populated and very scenic region is home to desert-adapted elephant and black rhino. The landscape features surreal rock formations adorned with ancient San rock art, petrified forests, the imposing Spitzkoppe mountain, and the Brandberg Massif. It has no national parks, but does boast a collection of game reserves and concessions with remote safari lodges offering opportunities to spot lion, cheetah, giraffe, and more, in this captivating environment.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Dramatic and awe-inspiring landscapes
- Desert-adapted elephant, black rhino, lion, cheetah, giraffe, and various antelope species
- Twyfelfontein with thousands of engravings (petroglyphs)
- Surreal rock formations
- A vast and sparsely populated area, giving you a true sense of wilderness and adventure

KAOKOVELD

One of Africa's last true wildernesses, the land here is home to the relatively untouched Herero and Himba communities. Being as remote and inaccessible as it is, Kaokoveld holds profound allure for adventurous travellers. Here, you may spot lion, leopard, and cheetah. The region is also known for its population of desert-adapted elephants.

HIGHLIGHTS

- One of Africa's last true wildernesses, offering a sense of remoteness and isolation
- Home to Herero and Himba communities
- Experience the fascinating culture of the Himba people, a semi-nomadic people

Wilderness Hoanib Skeleton Coast Camp | Shipwreck Lodge

10 ETOSHA NATIONAL PARK

Etosha is not Namibia's biggest national park, but it is most certainly its most famous. The park's most distinguishing feature is its enormous, silvery-white salt pan and the variety and concentration of game that gathers around its spring-fed waterholes. Nicknamed the "Place of Mirages", the terrain is a photographer's dream, especially when lion, wildebeest, or desert-adapted elephant appear through the haze against the stark backdrop. Etosha Pan, the remains of an ancient inland lake, covers about a quarter of the park with the rest of the park consisting of diverse habitats such as mopane woodland, treeless plains, and open savannah. Animals to look out for include desert-adapted elephant, blue wildebeest, eland, springbok, and gemsbok.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Etosha Pan, a massive, shimmering white salt pan, is the park's most iconic feature
- Diverse habitats and abundant wildlife
- Spring-fed waterholes act as magnets for wildlife, especially during the dry season

RWANDA

Known as “The Land of a Thousand Hills”, Rwanda is a tiny landlocked country in East Africa. Located at the centre of the Albertine Rift, it is characterised by mountainous terrain in the west and savannahs and marshes in the east. The legendary Virunga Mountains in the north-west are home to volcanoes, swathes of cloud forest and half the world’s total population of endangered mountain gorillas. Aside from gorillas, Rwanda is known for the traumatic genocide of 1994, as well as for its courageous recovery to become a stable, well-run and united country. It is well worth visiting for its natural beauty, its inspiring people, and of course – its gorillas.

3 VOLCANOES NATIONAL PARK

Volcanoes National Park is part of the Virunga Massif that straddles three countries – Rwanda, the Democratic Republic of Congo, and Uganda. Together with Uganda’s Mgahinga National Park and the Democratic Republic of Congo’s Virunga National Park, Volcanoes National Park makes up a 44 800-hectare (110 000-acre) conservation area that is a UNESCO World Heritage Site and home to over 1,000 mountain gorillas. The Park was gazetted in 1925 to help protect these rare apes and is Africa’s oldest national park. It is also considered the best place in East Africa to go gorilla trekking, thanks to its easy access to 12 habituated mountain gorilla groups. Aside from the gorillas, the park is also home to the endangered golden monkey.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Mountain gorilla trekking
- Golden monkey tracking
- Dian Fossey’s former research centre and grave site

TANZANIA

Tanzania is an East African country located between Kenya and Mozambique. It is one of Africa's most iconic wildlife destinations and is famous for the annual Great Migration, a natural wonder during which herds of over a million wildebeest, zebra, and numerous other herbivores follow the fresh grasses across the open plains of Serengeti National Park. As breathtaking as the migration is, there is much more to this country than just this wildlife phenomenon. With 22 national parks, the Ngorongoro Crater (a UNESCO World Heritage Site), three of Africa's Great Lakes, a beautiful coastline, and Mount Kilimanjaro, the peak mountain in Africa, Tanzania truly is a country of endless experiences.

ARUSHA

Arguably the safari capital of East Africa, Arusha is a bustling city in northern Tanzania and the main hub for visitors embarking on a safari in this extraordinary, wildlife-rich country. Located right on the cusp of some of Africa's most famous national parks and in the shadow of Mount Meru and Mount Kilimanjaro, the city draws thousands of tourists annually. With Kilimanjaro International Airport serving as your introduction to the country, as well as a hub for charter flights to safari destinations in the region, as well as Arusha Airport – a smaller domestic airport that allows for a more efficient transfer of travellers to their safari destinations – this city is the gateway to safaris in Tanzania.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Arusha National Park
- Arusha Cultural Heritage Centre
- Coffee plantation tour
- Materuni Waterfalls and Hot Springs
- Mount Kilimanjaro trekking – day trips and overnight trips
- Scenic helicopter flights over Kilimanjaro

2 DAR ES SALAAM

From the Arabic meaning “Abode of Peace”, Dar es Salaam is the largest city in Tanzania and is named for its location on a large natural harbour. Due to its history as a port town, Dar es Salaam is a melting pot of cultures, with strong influences from Africa, Arabia, and India. This is reflected in the city's architecture, cuisine, and traditions. It boasts vibrant markets, pristine beaches, and is well situated for trips to nearby islands such as Zanzibar and Pemba.

HIGHLIGHTS

- National Museum and House of Culture
- Vibrant markets
- Pristine white sand beaches, turquoise water, and rich marine life
- Day trips to islands like Bongoyo or Mbudya islands.
- Starting point for Mikumi and Nyerere national parks, among others

3 LAKE MANYARA

Lake Manyara is a picturesque lake in northern Tanzania, nestled at the base of the Great Rift Valley escarpment. Known for its stunning scenery and rich biodiversity, the lake is home to flamingos, hippos, elephants, and tree-climbing lions. It forms the heart of Lake Manyara National Park, offering visitors a unique blend of wildlife, birdwatching, and breathtaking landscapes in a compact, diverse ecosystem.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Lake Manyara is renowned for its stunning views along the Great Rift Valley escarpment.
- The lake hosts thousands of flamingos and over 400 bird species.
- It's famous for unique tree-climbing lions and large elephant herds.
- The surrounding national park offers diverse ecosystems in a compact area.
- Manyara Forest Treetop Walk
- Canoeing
- Bicycle tours

4 NGORONGORO CRATER

Nearly 20 kilometres in diameter, the Ngorongoro Crater is the largest intact volcanic caldera in the world, and views from atop the 600 m high walls are spectacular. This nature wonderland offers sightings of the Big Five, a host of excellent plains game, and even the odd elusive leopard perched high in a tree. Flamingos can be seen wading through the central soda lake, and the freshwater lakes provide excellent bird watching. The area is protected as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and an estimated 25,000 large animals live in the crater. Olduvai Gorge is also archaeologically significant, with many important fossils and ancient tools discovered there.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Largest intact volcanic caldera in the world
- UNESCO World Heritage Site
- Breathtaking panoramic views
- Diverse wildlife including the Big Five
- Estimated 25,000 large animals reside within the crater
- Olduvai Gorge

6 PEMBA ISLAND

This scenic island off the coast of Tanzania is part of the Zanzibar Archipelago. Known for its coral reefs and astounding marine life in the Pemba Channel, it is a prime location for diving and snorkelling. The island's lush green hills are covered with clove and mango plantations, earning it the nickname "Green Island". Here you can explore Chake Fundus, the main town, discover the ruins of an 18th century fort, and visit Misali Island, which is home to the rare Fischer's turaco.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Pemba Channel, excellent for diving and snorkelling
- Chake Fundus and the ruins of an 18th-century fort
- Misali Island

RUAHA NATIONAL PARK

Named after the Great Ruaha River, which flows along its southeastern margin, Ruaha National Park sits at 20,226 km<sup>2</sup>, making it the second biggest national park in Tanzania. Known for its wildlife viewing, the park is home to the Big 5, giraffe, zebra, and antelope such as greater and lesser kudu, sable, and roan which are found in no other national parks in Tanzania. More than 540 bird species have also been recorded here, making it a birders' paradise. Overall, an outstanding wildlife destination.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Second largest national park with excellent wildlife viewing
- Has greater and lesser kudu, sable, and roan, which are found in no other national parks in Tanzania
- Over 540 recorded bird species
- Hot Air Ballooning (June to October)

SERENGETI NATIONAL PARK

North

Sandwiched between the Central Serengeti and Kenya's Masai Mara National Reserve, the remote Northern Serengeti is the ideal destination for travellers wanting to experience the wilderness with few others around. Its landscape is defined by granite rock formations, grassy hills and acacia trees. In July and August (as well as October and November), the Great Migration sees large numbers of wildebeest and zebra cross the perilous waters of the Mara River. Because the area is not easily accessible, viewings of the river crossings are often less crowded. This region is also where you'll find most of the Serengeti's elephants, particularly in the Lobo Valley in the north-east. Look out for big cats, giraffe, hyenas, eland and hippos too.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Less crowded and more secluded safari
- Great Migration river crossings
- Lobo Valley
- Hot Air Ballooning ( 15 June to -15 January)

Central

The Central Serengeti, which incorporates the eastern and western parts of the park, is known for its lion, cheetah, and leopard populations. Its diverse wildlife offers excellent viewing year-round. Seronera Valley is in the Central Serengeti, and it's here that you'll find the widest variety of animals, like elephant, giraffe, hippo, buffalo, topi, lion, cheetah, and leopard. Game viewing is best from April to June, especially when the Great Migration passes through. As with the rest of the park, this region is characterised by its open grasslands, granite outcrops and acacia woodlands.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Known for its lion, cheetah, and leopard populations
- The Seronera Valley
- Excellent game viewing from April to June when the Great Migration passes through
- Hot Air Ballooning (year-round)

West

The Western Serengeti in Tanzania offers a captivating safari experience, renowned for its dramatic wildebeest river crossings during the Great Migration. This remote region features lush riverine forests, open plains, and the Grumeti River, home to large crocodiles and diverse wildlife. Visitors enjoy fewer crowds, excellent game viewing, and rich birdlife. Ideal for luxury and adventurous travellers alike, the Western Serengeti provides an unforgettable blend of untamed wilderness and breathtaking natural spectacle.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Resident population of wildebeest
- Ndabaka Plains
- The Simiti Hills
- Hot Air Ballooning (year-round, minimum 6 pax*)

South

Discover an area of expansive grassy plains, riverine forests, rocky outcrops, and savannah, where the animals of the Great Migration settle to calve between mid-November and April. These nutrient-rich plains become home to some two million animals and the lion, cheetah, and hyena that profit from their arrival. Because it is easily accessible, this part of the Serengeti can become quite busy at peak times, so moving around for the best game viewing opportunities is best.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Known for its lion, cheetah, and leopard populations
- The Seronera Valley
- Excellent game viewing from April to June when the Great Migration passes through
- Hot Air Ballooning –(20th December to 31st March)

East

The Eastern Serengeti in Tanzania is a vast, less-traveled region known for its open plains, rocky kopjes, and rich wildlife. It's a prime area for spotting predators like cheetahs and lions, offering exceptional game viewing with fewer crowds. This remote wilderness provides a more authentic, off-the-beaten-path safari experience. The region's dramatic landscapes and seasonal wildebeest movements make it a vital part of the Serengeti ecosystem, ideal for adventurous travelers seeking solitude and stunning scenery.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Striking distance of the Southern and Eastern Plain
- Less crowded area of the Serengeti
- Hot Air Ballooning (year-round)

9 GRUMETI RESERVE

The Grumeti Reserve in Tanzania is a private conservation area bordering the Serengeti, offering an exclusive and intimate safari experience. Renowned for its role in the Great Migration, it features dramatic river crossings and abundant wildlife, including lions, elephants, and rare colobus monkeys. With luxurious lodges and limited visitor numbers, Grumeti ensures privacy and exceptional game viewing. Its pristine landscapes, from riverine forests to sweeping savannahs, make it a premier destination for discerning nature lovers.

10 TARANGIRE NATIONAL PARK

Located in northern Tanzania and named after the river that courses through it, Tarangire National Park is known for its large populations of elephant and abundance of baobab trees. The landscape is a mixture of open woodlands and pockets of acacia trees where lion and leopard can be seen stalking vast herds of plains game. The animal density is high here, particularly during the dry season (June – October) when the Tarangire River becomes a magnet for thirsty wildlife. Although much smaller than the likes of the Serengeti, more than 550 bird species have been recorded in the park, making it one of Tanzania’s top birding destinations.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Prime destination for elephant
- Abundance of iconic baobab trees
- Tarangire River, a wildlife magnet in the dry season
- Over 550 recorded bird species, making it a top birding destination
- Hot Air Ballooning (year-round excluding April/May)

ZAMBIA

Zambia is a vast, peaceful country with superb wildlife. Landlocked in south-central Africa, it is one of the region's least travelled and most rewarding wilderness destinations. The country boasts the Zambezi, Kafue and Luangwa rivers, as well as the famed Victoria Falls, which it shares with neighbouring Zimbabwe. While Lusaka is the country's capital, Livingstone, just 10 km (six miles) from the Falls, is the well-known adventure capital, offering adrenaline-packed activities at the Falls and on the Zambezi River. Regarding wildlife, Zambia offers impressive diversity in its 20 national parks, with large concentrations of game in some of the continent's wildest and most remote areas.

LUSAKA

Zambia's capital has much to offer, from museums and galleries to clothing and produce markets, as well as a nearby wildlife sanctuary and botanical garden. As one of Southern Africa's fastest developing cities, it is an exciting mix of cultures. The markets here have beautifully crafted souvenirs, bright fabrics, and artworks. Nearby, you'll find one of the country's smaller parks, Lusaka National Park, known for its white rhino.

HIGHLIGHTS

- The Lusaka National Museum
- Lusaka National Park
- Clothing and produce markets

SUGGESTED PROPERTIES

- Latitude 15° (32) *
- Taj Pamodzi Hotel (192) *

2 LIVINGSTONE

Livingstone – named after David Livingstone, the first European to explore the area – is a town on the Zambian side of Victoria Falls. From here, visitors can tour the Falls, as well as enjoy on river safaris, scenic helicopter flights, or visit nearby Mosi-oa-Tunya National Park. It also offers a wealth of adrenaline activities such as white-river rafting, abseiling, and bungee jumping. The town itself features examples of colonial and modern African architecture, museums, arts and crafts, with Wilderness Touring Zambezi providing touring infrastructure for all these activities.

3 LOWER ZAMBEZI NATIONAL PARK

The Lower Zambezi National Park is nestled in the south-east of Zambia, separated from Zimbabwe by the Zambezi River. It forms part of the greater Lower Zambezi system that spans Zambia, Zimbabwe, and Mozambique. The Park covers 4,092 square kilometers, but most of the game is concentrated along the valley floor. A much larger game management area surrounds it, and as there are no fences, animals are free to come and go. The Park is known for its enormous herds of elephants, which often congregate at the river's edge. "Island hopping" buffalo can usually be found grazing on the islands in the middle of the river, while the park's main predators, leopard, favour the park's many tall trees.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Wildlife congregating along the Zambezi River
- Game drives, walking safaris, boat safaris, canoeing, and fishing
- Over 400 recorded bird species

MOSI-OA-TUNYA NATIONAL PARK

Mosi-oa-Tunya National Park is an excellent choice for those who want to experience the magic of Victoria Falls and enjoy rewarding wildlife encounters in a relatively short time. The Park conserves a beautiful 20 km stretch of the Zambezi River in which one of Zambia's only white rhino population exists. It is a small but diverse park that has elephant, buffalo, hippo, giraffe, zebra, wildebeest, white rhino, impala, and kudu, amongst other wildlife.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Victoria Falls nearby
- Located on the Zambezi River
- One of Zambia's only populations of white rhino
- Excellent boat safaris
- Located near Livingstone town

SOUTH LUANGWA NATIONAL PARK

South Luangwa National Park, located in eastern Zambia, offers a unique and unforgettable safari experience. With the park covering 9,050 km<sup>2</sup> of the Luangwa Valley floor and the Luangwa River meandering along its southern border, the park attracts large concentrations of wildlife including elephant, lion, leopard, African wild dog, buffalo, and the endemic Thornicroft's giraffe. Over 400 species of bird have also been recorded in the park, making it an all-round rich wildlife area.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Luangwa River
- The endemic Thornicroft's giraffe
- Game drives, walking safaris, as well as night drives
- Over 400 recorded bird species
- Offers a more exclusive and less crowded safari experience

6 KAFUE NATIONAL PARK

At 2.25 million hectares (5.5 million acres), Kafue National Park is one of the largest in Africa, and Zambia's oldest protected area. The northern sector is remote, wild and diverse, with vast tracts of pristine wilderness. The north-west is dominated by the Busanga Swamps, a wetland that gives way to the extensive floodplain of the Busanga Plains, seasonally inundated grassland dotted with isolated tree islands. The Lunga, Lufupa and Kafue rivers are lined with riverine forests, and the landscape is further patterned with broad-leaved miombo woodland, open plains, floodplains and island thickets. Lake Itzhi-Tezhi in the south is another prominent feature in Kafue.

HIGHLIGHTS

- One of the largest national parks in Africa
- Diverse habitats which support a wide range of wildlife
- Home to the rare red lechwe, as well as zebra, buffalo, and wildebeest
- Stronghold for predators, including lion, leopard, cheetah, and African wild dog

ZIMBABWE

Zimbabwe is a landlocked country that is home to Victoria Falls, Lake Kariba, rich wildlife areas, and inspiring people. It has two major rivers that form its northern and southern boundaries, with the great Zambezi cutting along its northern frontier and the Limpopo forming the southern border with South Africa. In between, the country has a variety of habitats, from the Kalahari sands and teak forests of Hwange National Park to the majestic mountains, lush forests and beautiful rivers of the Eastern Highlands. As such, there is much to attract travellers, from wildlife viewing and adrenaline adventures, to encountering the history of the Zimbabwean people going back thousands of years.

3 GONAREZHOU NATIONAL PARK

Known as the “The Place of Elephants”, Gonarezhou National Park is home to some 11,500 elephants. It is Zimbabwe’s second largest national park and is located in the remote south-eastern corner of the country, making it a peaceful and uncrowded safari experience. Here, you’ll find spectacular scenery such as the sandstone Chilojo Cliffs along the Runde River, and a great variety of wildlife, which includes elephant, lion, leopard, cheetah, buffalo, zebra, giraffe and over 450 recorded bird species.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Over 11,500 elephants
- Chilojo Cliffs
- Over 450 recorded bird species
- Game drives, walking safaris, boat safaris, and cultural experiences

4

HWANGE NATIONAL PARK

Hwange National Park, Zimbabwe's largest, sits on the border with Botswana. It's 1.4 million hectares (3.4 million acres) of Kalahari sands support a diversity of habitats, which, despite low rainfall, are a profusion of green in summer. Its location – a convergence zone between the Kalahari, moist miombo woodlands, and a broad band of mopane – ensures a captivating species diversity. Home to over 100 mammals and 400 recorded bird species, the park protects numerous species, and has one of Africa's densest concentrations of wildlife, particularly elephant and buffalo. While spectacularly productive in summer, the game viewing in the dry winter months (when the wildlife concentrates around the Park's numerous pans) is what makes Hwange world renowned.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Over 30,000 elephants
- Diverse habitats which support a wide array of wildlife
- Over 400 recorded bird species
- Game drives and walking safaris
- Iconic pans with high concentrations of game

5 LAKE KARIBA

In northern Zimbabwe, lies Lake Kariba. Situated between Zimbabwe and Zambia, it is the second-largest man-made lake in Africa and was formed when the Zambezi River was dammed at Kariba Gorge in the 1950s. This area is rich in wildlife thanks to its ready supply of regenerative grasses and abundant water. Here you'll find buffalo, waterbuck, zebra, impala, and the predators that hunt them.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Lake Kariba, the second-largest man-made lake in Africa
- Zambezi Escarpment and Matusadona National Park
- A variety of water activities, such as boating, fishing, and water skiing
- Houseboat cruises

MANA POOLS NATIONAL PARK

Mana Pools National Park, situated on the Zambezi River and a UNESCO World Heritage Site, offers spectacular views of the river, its floodplains, riverine woodland, and the mountains of Zambia’s Rift Valley escarpment in the distance. Majestic ana trees line the river and its waters hold impressive concentrations of hippo, Nile crocodile, and healthy populations of tigerfish and bream. "Mana", meaning "four" in Shona, refers to the four main pools (Main, Chine, Long, and Chisambuk) – remnant ox-bow lakes from the Zambezi's past course – that, along with other inland pools, hold water year-round, attracting diverse wildlife including elephant, buffalo, zebra, various antelope, lion, leopard, and African wild dog.

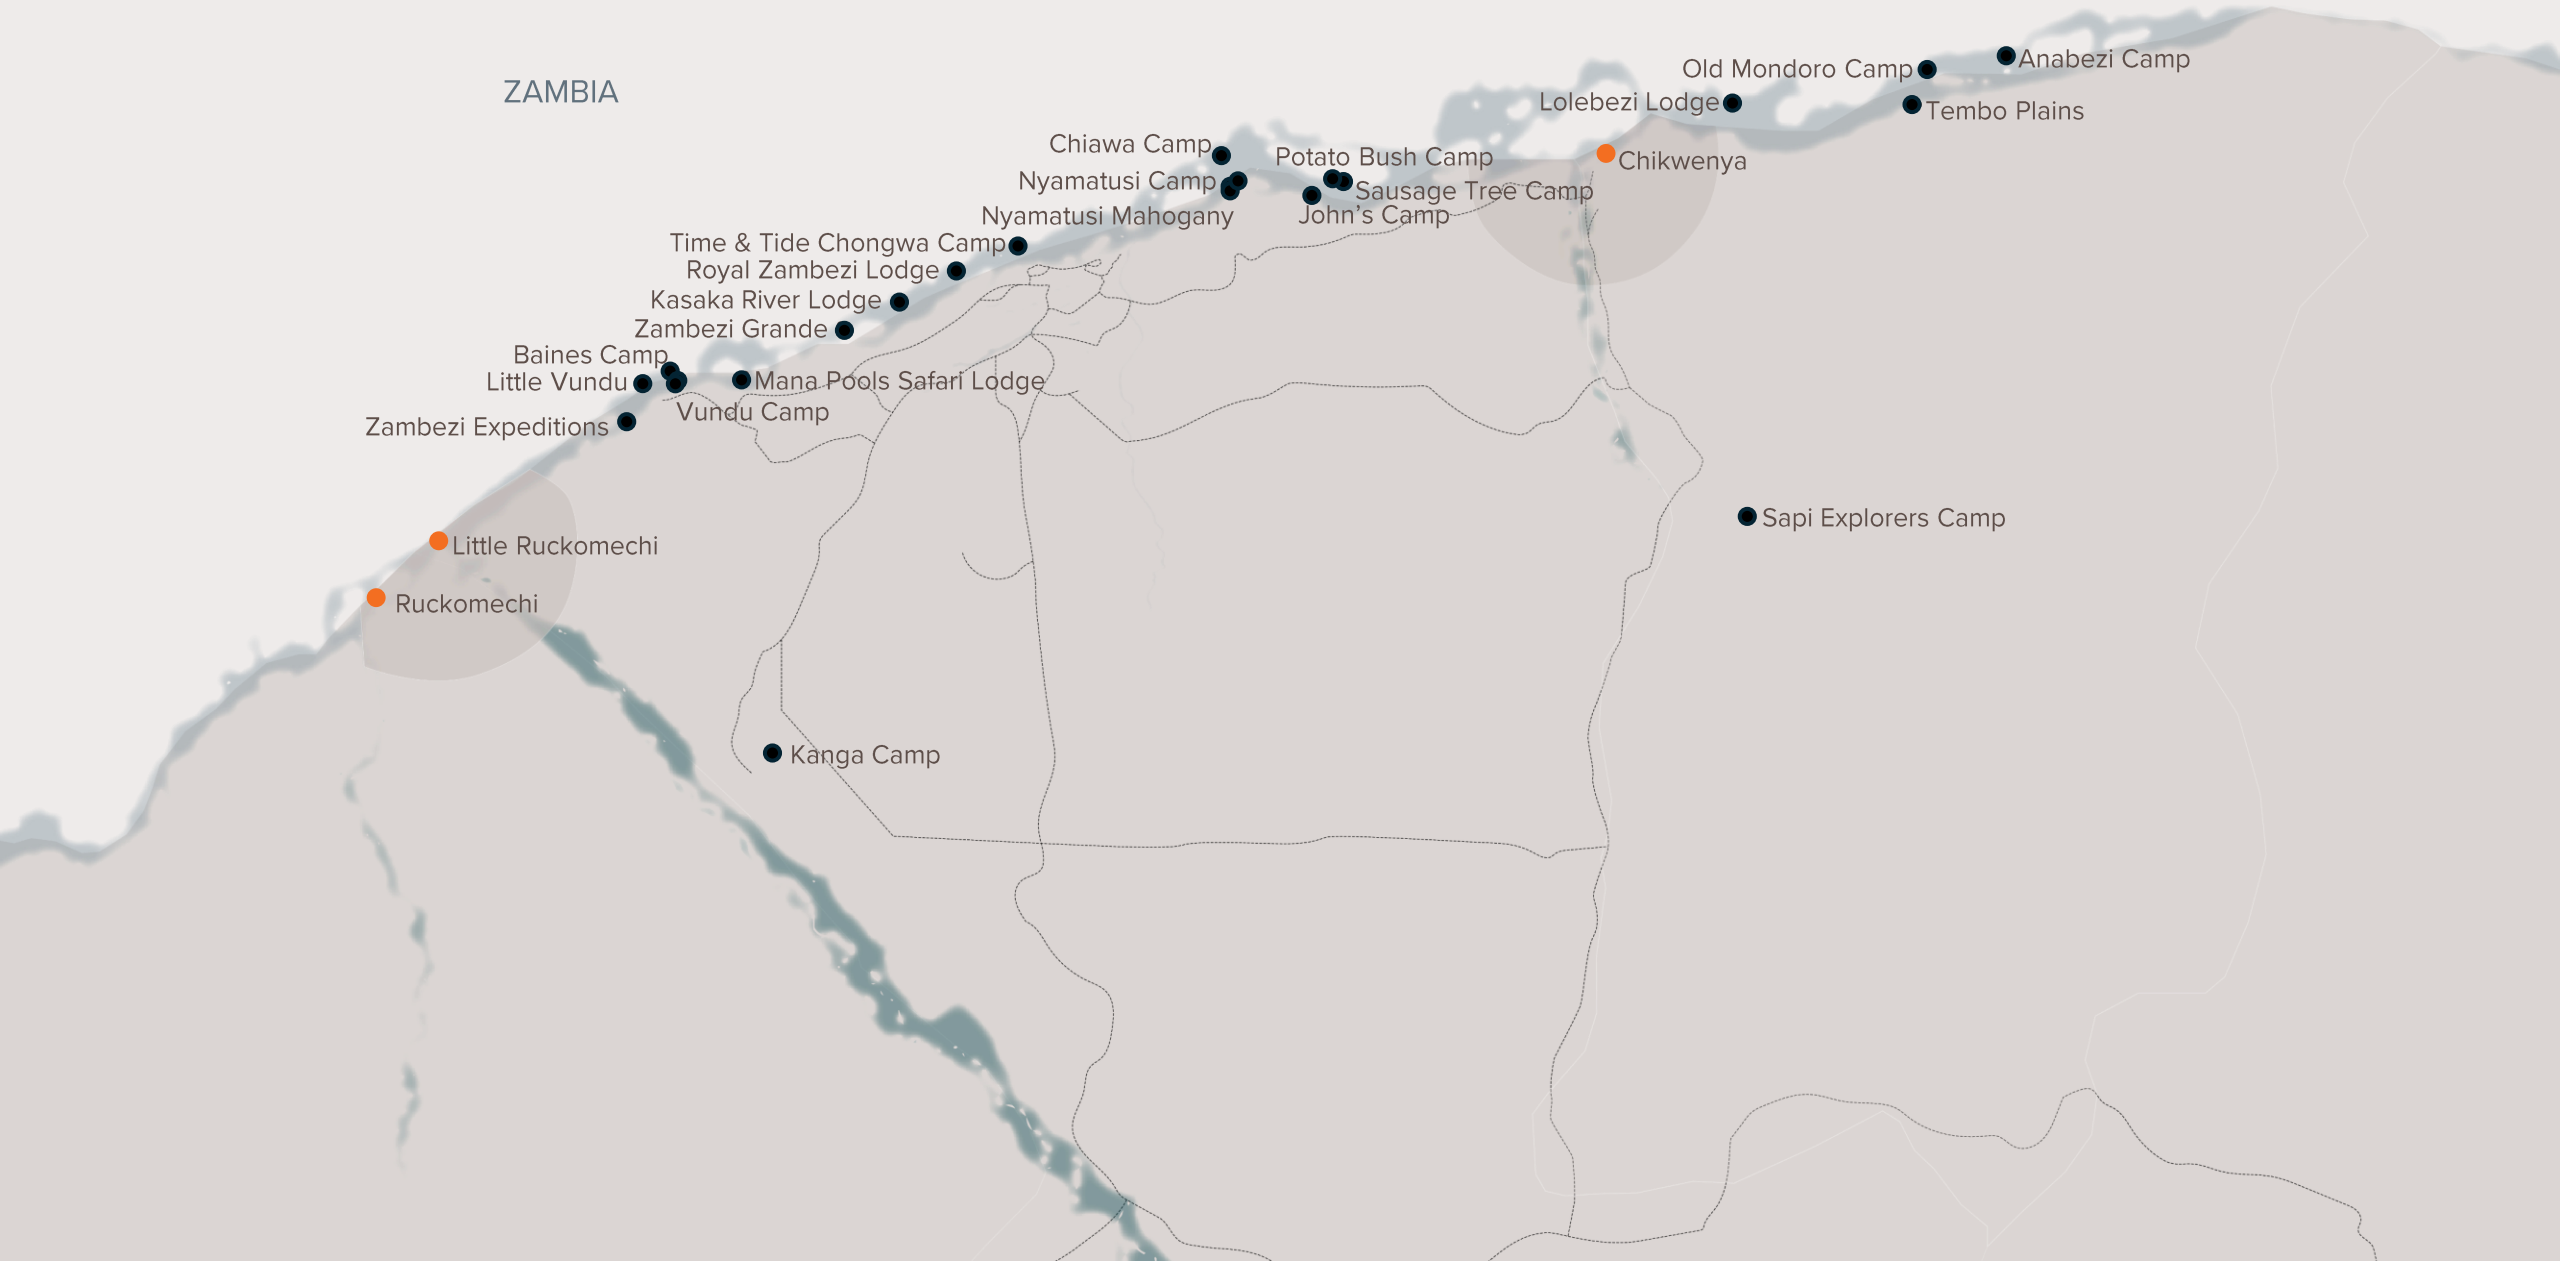

HIGHLIGHTS

- Zambezi River with iconic ana trees lining its banks
- Game drivers, walking safaris, boating safaris, and canoeing
- The Four Pools, which attract abundant wildlife
