ITINERARY

- 1 3 nights Wilderness Toka Leya
- 2 3 nights Wilderness Linkwasha
- 3 3 nights Wilderness Ruckomechi

A dramatic sky scene featuring a vibrant rainbow arching across the frame, set against a backdrop of dark, heavy, and billowing clouds. The rainbow's colors are bright and distinct, contrasting sharply with the dark, textured clouds. The overall mood is awe-inspiring and powerful.

ABOUT THE AREA

Arguably the most luxurious camp in Hwange, Wilderness Linkwasha lies in a private concession in the enormously productive south-eastern corner of Hwange National Park. It is situated on the edge of the famed Ngamo Plains, where wildlife gathers in uncountable numbers during summer – to add to the year-round excellent viewing from the camp itself. Linkwasha overlooks a pan that is a huge draw for thirsty animals, especially in the dry winter months.

CAMPS TO COMBINE WITH

- Toka Leya
- Chikwenya

ACCESS TO CAMP

- Airstrip: Linkwasha Airstrip
- Duration to Camp: Approximately 50 to 60 minutes

HIGHLIGHTS

- Hwange is Zimbabwe's oldest and largest park, with varied habitats from woodlands to grasslands and salt pans.
- Wilderness Linkwasha sits on the edge of Ngamo Plains, home to large herds of plains game and predators year-round.
- In winter, waterholes near camp teem with elephants and buffalo.
- Guests enjoy exclusive access to 34,000 ha of private reserve.

BEST TIME TO TRAVEL

December to March

- A season of abundance as antelope enter calving season, and predator activity increases
- Excellent game viewing on the Ngamo Plains in south-eastern Hwange
- Summer migrant birds in full breeding plumage
- Superb photographic opportunities with vibrant colours, soft light, and dynamic wildlife scenes

April to May

- Pleasant, warm days with a moderate climate
- Transitional season showcasing both green and dry conditions
- Unique wildlife and landscape dynamics as the season shifts

June to November

- Limited water leads to large wildlife concentrations around waterholes
- Excellent visibility in dry, leafless woodland
- Cool and dry, with temperatures gradually rising toward October

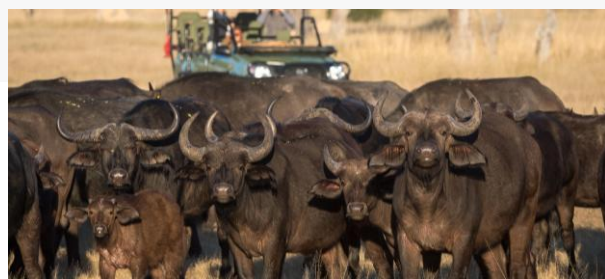

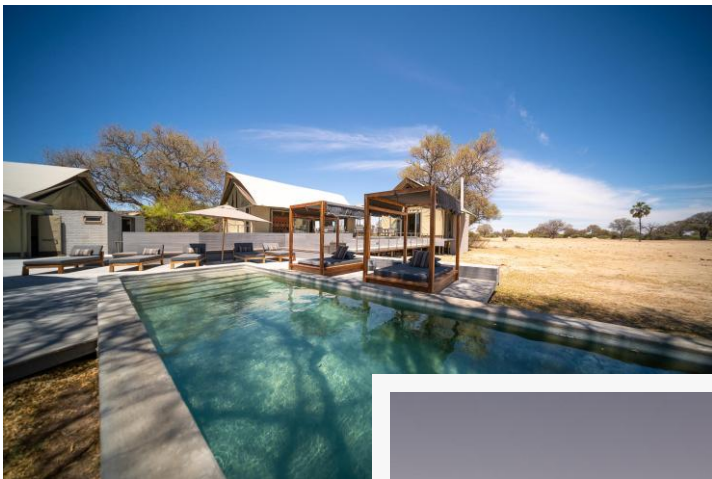

WILDERNESS

RUCKOMECHI

WILDERNESS RUCKOMECHI

The story of our business is one best told in two halves:
Conservation and Hospitality. These halves are equally important and deeply linked

HOSPITALITY

By bringing guests to discover the beating pulse of Earth's ultimate untamed places...

Our hospitality success dictates our conservation impact efforts...

The more guests and partners we involve in our purpose...

CONSERVATION

...we impact communities through park lease fees, employment and by using locally sourced produce in our camps.

...as it enables us to support educational programmes, human-wildlife conflict and ongoing empowerment

...the greater the impact we can have in helping to protect these iconic and wild destinations.

OUR IMPACT ON CONSERVATION AND COMMUNITIES

Across the majority of our areas of operation, limited access to education and economic opportunity lead to over-reliance on the environment and threats to biodiversity conservation. Our Impact framework seeks to address these challenges through three pillars.

THREE PILLARS OF OUR IMPACT STRATEGY

EMPOWER

Employment and local small-business support reduce reliance on natural resources. This mitigates the knock-on impact on wilderness and wildlife

EDUCATE

Children in the Wilderness runs environmental education programmes in partner schools to improve economic opportunity, family resilience and support for conservation.

PROTECT

The Wilderness Trust NPO supports projects addressing the needs of existing wildlife populations, seeks solutions to conserve endangered species and provides education for communities.
