

DISCOVER NAMIBIA
Huge, iconic, startlingly
LIFE-FILLED

25 MARCH – 1 APRIL 2020 (FAM TRIP)

Join us in exploring a country of astonishing contrasts celebrated for its vast open landscapes – to inhale deeply and reflect on our place in the world.

Namibia's immensity is accentuated by the fact that it is the driest country south of the Sahara; there are many places where its lunar-like surface seems to deny the existence of all life.

But life there is, and in many diverse and unique forms ... from the Himba people, one of the last true nomadic tribes on Earth, to the distinctive desert-adapted elephant, the bizarre welwitschia plant and the superbly-adapted tenebrionid beetles.

DAY 1 & 2 DESERT RHINO CAMP

Set in a remote valley of the Palmwag Concession, this light-footprint camp is the result of a forward-thinking rhino conservation partnership between ourselves, Save the Rhino Trust (SRT) and the Namibian government. Privileged access to desert-adapted black rhino from this special location is enabled by skilled SRT trackers. The red-rock-strewn valleys, interspersed with tiny springs, are home to numbers of Hartmann's mountain zebra, giraffe, oryx, springbok and spotted hyaena too.

DAY 3 & 4: SERRA CAFEMA

The most remote camp in Namibia – and perhaps the whole of southern Africa – Serra Cafema is unique. The stylish and comfortable lodge (rebuilt in 2018) is perched on the edge of the permanently-flowing Kunene River – an anomaly in the desert – and is a cool, calm refuge from the aridity of daily expeditions by vehicle or quad bike to visit traditional Himba communities or explore the scenic drama of the endless Hartmann's Valley.

DAY 5 & 7: HOANIB SKELETON COAST CAMP

In a broad, dry valley that looks toward the seldom-flowing Hoanib River lies Hoanib Skeleton Coast Camp. In this land of rugged mountains, gravel plains and rolling dunefields, regular encounters with a surprising array of large, charismatic desert-adapted wildlife abound, from elephant, lion and giraffe to oryx, springbok and even brown hyaena. The camp's position allows access to the legendary Skeleton Coast, with its stark shores and seal colonies, along with views of secret oases, magnificent dunes and unexpected yet thriving life.
